

ABSTRACT

An infusion system is disclosed for delivering fluid wherein the system has a flow control element within a spike member (100). The spike member (100) is a fluid extraction spike member 5 having a fluid passageway (110) and a micro-electromechanical system (MEMS) element (108) operatively connected to the fluid extraction spike member (100).